Dear Dr. Dayaratne,

I hope this message finds you well. My name is Bushra Alarbeed, a PhD student at the Indian Institute of Technology Roorkee (IITR), currently working on the transformation of vernacular houses in Sweida, southern Syria.

I greatly admire the ISVS e-journal's mission and its commitment to advancing the field of vernacular settlements and cultural studies. I am submitting a manuscript based on my doctoral dissertation and would be grateful for your guidance regarding the following:

Based on the abstract attached below, do you think my article would be suitable for your esteemed journal? Thank you very much for your time and consideration. I look forward to your review and guidance.

Best regards,

Subject: Publication of your paper in the ISVS e-journal

Dear Bushra,

I am pleased to inform you that your paper has been now reviewed by two reviewers. This paper could be a very valuable paper to reveal the cultural continuity of vernacular settings by adaptations and transformations. However, it needs a set of revisions and improvements. Please find attached a composite review with the comments suggesting what you need to improve the paper. Please revise accordingly and save as ISVSej_12.06.XX_Bushra and send it to me in about 2 weeks; if it is done well and accepted, it could be published in September 2025.

Please let me know if you have any issues. When you include images, make sure that the resolution of the images are less than 1MB or closer when saved as a PDF. Nevertheless, send me the word document.

Please confirm that you will revise the paper on time, so that a slot can be allocated in Vol. 12 Issue 6 due in November in the hope that it will be revised well.

Looking forward to hearing from you,

Ranjith Dayaratne.

Dear Prof. Dayaratne,

Thank you very much for your email and for accepting our paper for publication.

I'm currently in the final year of my PhD, and my scholarship has recently ended. If there are any further editorial tasks required during the final process, please let me know.

I remain fully committed to completing all the formalities required for publication and greatly appreciate your understanding.

With sincere regards,
Bushra Alarbeed
